Elementary Infection Prevention and Control Course

REGULATIONS

1.0 TO BECOME A PROVISIONAL ELEMENTARY TRAINING CENTRE

- 1.1 Centres providing the Elementary Infection Prevention and Control Course are required to meet REHIS's strict quality assurance requirements. Potential centres should seek provisional approval from REHIS by submitting one form COI1 for the centre. Form COI1 requests the potential centre to identify someone as centre contact. All correspondence from REHIS relating to Elementary Infection Prevention and Control Courses will subsequently be directed to that person.
- 1.2 Each centre must have at least one REHIS approved presenter. A separate registration form COI2 should be submitted for each course presenter.
- 1.3 In applying for approval a potential centre is deemed to have accepted such regulations as REHIS make regarding the Elementary Infection Prevention and Control Course.
- 1.5 Upon receipt of a request for provisional centre approval, REHIS will advise the potential centre if a pre-approval visit is required. If a pre-approval visit is required, provisional approval will be considered following the recommendation of the visiting REHIS officer to the Director of Training. Such a visit is charged at £200 plus expenses. If a pre-approval visit is not required by REHIS, the potential centre may immediately be awarded Provisional Elementary Training Centre status.

2.0 PROVISIONAL ELEMENTARY TRAINING CENTRE

- 2.1 REHIS will consider each application and notify its decision in writing. Provisional approval of a centre cannot be concluded until the annual centre enrolment fee has been received. Centres which required a pre-approval visit will be exempted from the first annual centre enrolment fee.
- 2.2 All Provisional Elementary Training Centres will normally receive a verification visit by a REHIS officer to at least one of their courses. Based on the recommendations of the visiting officer the centre may then be awarded Approved Elementary Training Centre status. If the visiting officer is not able to recommend Approved Elementary Training Centre status, provisional approval may be extended pending another round of visits or withdrawn.
